

How Divorced Parents Create Holiday Harmony

Mary Jane Gore, who's separated from her husband, tells how she and her "ex" spend time together with their kids over the holidays--and even live in the same house on different floors. Retired family law attorney Brette Sember, author of "How To Parent With Your Ex," provides advice and ideas about creating holiday harmony--for the sake of the children.

Ads by Google

Family Tree History
Comprehensive Family Tree Search. Trace Your Family History Here.
Ancestry.com

Listen to Stepfamily Talk Radio

Make a Family Tree
Perfect for Kid Projects
Make and Print Your Tree in Minutes
www.myheritage.com/family-tree

Holiday Stepfamily eBook
Connect with your stepchildren Create heartwarming traditions
www.connectingstepfamilies.com

Blended Family Issues?
Talk it over! Start living the life you want
www.HeikeBerens.com.au

Advice for Stepfamilies
Bond as a family without duct tape! Helpful advice for blended families
www.advicefromtheblender.com

CLOSE WINDOW